ICRC AGRICULTURAL ACTIVITIES

To make sure that people can grow the crops they need in times of trouble, we undertake a number of activities in the agriculture sector, including:

- Distributing seed and farming tools, either directly or through vouchers or seed fairs
- Setting up programmes to locally produce good quality seeds
- Building or rehabilitating irrigation systems
- Promoting the use of agricultural machinery
- Working with agriculture ministries to strengthen their capacities.
- Cash to pay for supplies and manpower, for example to prepare land for planting or repair essential farming infrastructure (including irrigation canals and pipes).

FARMING IN DETENTION

- As part of our broader efforts to ensure that people in places of detention are treated humanely, we work with detaining authorities to set up farming activities.
- Farms in low-security detention centres can provide detainees with more and better food, improving their daily diet. Growing crops has the added benefit of improving detainees' overall well-being as they stay active and learn new skills.
- We support farming in detention centres by providing supplies, technical advice and training in farming methods.
